

In response to growing public awareness about religion and its influence on modern society, Interfaith Dialog Center Women Association launches a discussion series entitled PII Women Gatherings.

With this new discussion series, PII aims to build a platform for the women to engage social scientists, educators, policy makers, and leaders in an intellectual and respectful environment in open discussions on issues ranging from education and moral understanding to economy.

The series are built on the learning journeys organized by PII's Women Team to offer women not just theory but the opportunity to voice and exchange opinions with others from diverse backgrounds that stand on the common ground of peace and understanding. IDC is committed to the centrality of freedom of expression and strives to be a leader in fostering the exchange of meaningful discussions about global issues.
